TIEMEN,—The vote recently carried against the Government in the Legislative Assembly has imposed open the Ministry the Constitutional alternative—either to resign their effices, or to recommend a dissolution of Parliament—and, in view of the public interests, they have folit it their duty to advice the latter course, which advice his Excellercy the Governor has been pleased to assept, and an appeal is row being made to the country to decide by whom, and upon what principles representative government is to be carried on.

In connection with this event, I would esp-cially call your attention to the unusual and unparliamentary character of the action taken by the members of the late Opposition. A flecting to consider the Government consumption of the late of the country of the country of the country of the country of the late of the country of the public business, have thereby practiced of Parliament and the country from acquiring a knowledge of the Ministerial measures, and have deferred for an indefinite period those important explanations in reference to our financial position which the Government were prepared at once to make.

Fuperadded to these avidences of a determined sprit of obstruction, I would also resist to the refusal of the Opposition to grant supply for the exigencies of the public service during the first three months of the casulny year—a course solirely at variance with constitutional practice, and tending to place the Government in a position of difficulty, by compelling them to expend the public money withen the authority of Parliament.

Under all these circumstances, and having regard to the fact that the Representative Chamber has shown itself incepable of control either by the present or by the

No man could be invensible of so great an honour as this unexpected requisition expressed, or remain untonched by the cot dience in my pointical contaisency which it implied. Buch confidence on your part, Gentlemen, in my poor abilities to serve you, would only be weakened, if not insulted by any formal announcement of my views; nor do I think that you will require at my hands on this occasion any more binding pledges than I afforded you, and which satisfied you on former occasions. The recent discolution of Parliament does not appear to require a fresh statement of my views on public questions; but should any of my former constituents think otherwise, I shall shortly, I true, be able to give them a satisfactory account of my former votes, and of my present opinions.

And should you again horour me with your choice, I will endeavour honestly, and to the best of my abilities, to fulfil the duties, and discharge the obligations imposed upon me by that honourable trust.

I remain, Gentlemen, your faithful servant, T. W. SMART.

TO Mesers, COUTTS, DAVIS, HARROLD, and the other Gentlemen signing the Requisition—Gentlemens,—I have the honour to acknowledge your very flattering and numerously signed requisition that I should become a candidate for the representation of the important Ricotrate of the GLEBE and BALMAIN in the ensuing Parliament.

To Gilbert Smith, John Furchase, John Neal, Hugh Taylor, Dennis Murphy, William Goodwin, John Mi Manis, Frederick Franch, and the other 103 gentlemen signing the requisition. Gentlemen,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your requisition calling on me to allow myself to become a candidate for the representation of your clostorate. I thank you most sincerely for the honour you have done me, and feel proud that I stand so high is the opinion of the electors. I accept your invitation and place my services at your disposal. I thrend to address the electors immediately throughout the electorate, when I shall be happy to afford a full exposition of my political views. Should you do me the honour of returning me as one of your representatives, I shall perseveringly endeavour to discharge my duty to yourselves and the country with fidelity and energy.

In taking this step I beg to assure you that I am influenced by no feelings of political partiaments.

In taking this step I beg to assure you that I am influenced by no feelings of political partiaments. The long and bitter conflicts of parties in the Legislative Assembly, together with the financial difficulties of the Government, have, in my opinion, tended to impede the progress of all the industrial interests of the colony; and it is to be earnessly desired that the result of the present appeal to the country will be the return of a Parliament constituted so as to ensure general confidence in its deliberations.

In the electorate of the Williams there are (perhaps more than in most of the other country districts of New South Walse) wide fields for the development of those great resources which have, of late years, directed the particular attention of European capitalists towards Australian sfairs. In your Agricultural, Pastoral, Mining, and Commercial operations you have afforded the most satisfactory evidence of unwonted activity. I am fully aware that, with reference to our industrial pursuits, a difference of opinion exists in the Colony in regard to a Pree Trade or Proteotion solicy. I will candidly state to you that I am a Free Trader; but I am at the same time an earnest advocate for the BNCOURACEMENT OF COLONIAL INDUSTRY by those legitimate means which it is in the power of Parliament to afford; and to those means I shall, if elected by you, devote my best attention.

I perceive, by the latest official returns of the Registrar-General, that, in respect to the number of its mills, manufactories, and works, the electorate of the Williams takes a high stand amongst the country districts, for which I beg to Ger you my congratulations. The progress of our manufacturing industry is an important subject, which should always commend itself to the attention of Farliament.

ent. Having a large stake in your electorate (more especially Glucester, Brookfield, Bandon Grove, and the sayan River.

There were various projected public measures of the highest importance announced by his Excellency the Governor in his Address to Farliament, on its re-assembling on the 19th ultimo. My opinions upon these measures, and on other topics introduced into the Viceregal Speech, will be fully explained whon I have the pleasure of meeting you.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,

FREDK, J. MANTON.

Sidney, November 12, 1864.

Sydney, November 12, 1864

To THE ELECTORS OF THE MURRUM-BIDGER.—GENTLEMEN,—An unseemly anxiety for place and pay on the part of those who composed the late Government, which showed itself at the very opening of the late session of Farliament, has led to the happy result of an appeal to the people. The issue, and I think the sole one, raised by the circumstances preceding the dissolution of the Assembly is, whether the peoulnary exigencies of a few individuals, whatever their merits may be, are a sufficient reason for the suspension of public business, and for the delay in the consideration of those measures which at the present juncture are so necessary for the welfare and credit of the ountry.

My vote was recorded against such delay, and in favour of the present Government, because I bulieved that the members of it were better fitted to resons the country from its financial difficulties than the late Government, who were the cause of them.

In offering myself as your representative in the next Parliament, I give you an opportunity of stamping with your approval the course which I have taken on this and former occasions, and this appeal I make to you, certain that you will do me the justice to believe that, throughout the whole of my political career, I have been actuated by one motive only, namely, the good of the country.

I have now for so many years had the honour of rapresenting you in Parliament, that my views upon most matters of public interest must be prety well known to you.

I intend, however, to visit the district before the day of nomination, and to afford those who may wishit, an opportunity of ascertaining more specifically my opinious upon the very important quasifous now pending.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obscient servant,

WILLIAM MAGLEAY.

WILLIAM MACLEAY.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE GOLD-FIELDS
WEST.—GENTLEMEN.—Having received a requisition from a large and influential number of your boay, I have been induced to become a candidate for the representation of your Electorate. Three years passed amongst you, with repeated visits more recently, while they have implied me with a desire to serre you, have also, I trust, given me, to some extent, the knowledge requisite to enable me to reader that service.

There are many questions into the consideration of which the limited space of an advertisement precludes me from entering, but upon which I hope to have opportunities of perronally stating to you my views. At the same time it is just to you that upon some matters I should, without delay, britfy place you in possession of my opinious.

the limited space of an advertisement precludes me from entering, but upon which I hope to have opportunities of personally stating to you my views. At the same time it is just to you that upon some matters I should, without delay, britdly place you in possession of my opinions.

I am an earnest advocate for State-sid to religion. I piedge myself to support any well-digested measure having for its object the placing our legislation upon this momentons question on a more satisfactory footing than that upon which it now stands.

The principles of commercial policy, to which I give my un quivocal ashesion, are those of free trade. Protection, a word politically used in a thoroughly false and vittated sense, is, in my opinion, a grand mistake, and means simply, taking meney out of the pockets of the many, in order to put it into the pockets of the many, in order to put it into the pockets of the far-damental principle of all sound legislation, "the greatest good of the greatest number." Perfect Commercial freedom is especially essential to the prosperity of this country. Population and capital are the two great wants of this colony; what greater inducements can be held out to expitalists on the one hand and to a labouring population on the other than PERFECTLY UNRESTRICTED LOMBERGE, and UNIVERSALLY-OF FAINING LOW PBICES: trade unfettered, and, in the words of Sir Bobert Peel, "A taxation so apportioned as to relieve industry and labour from any undue burthen, and to transfer it, as far as is consistent with the public good, to those who are better able to bear it."

FACILITY OF INTERNAL COMMUNICATION is a master of paramount importance. To bring about the deairable end, I should streamount in progress, and others not yet commenced.

The appalling insecurity of life and property in the interior cannot be suffered to continue. I will give my support to the most stringent measures for the immediate suppression of this state of crime, which, while it readers life in the interior almost a burden, holds up the whole on u in the interior almost a burden, holds up the whole country as no object of scorn and pity to the world,—a veritable byword smong the nations.

I am of opinion that the Government, charging as it does a high scort isse, should not shrink from the responsibility of GUARAMTERING the safe carriage of gold. I am slee of opinion that arrangements should forthwith be made whereby once a week on every road throughout the colony-there should be an escorted mail. The occasequent interruption of the passenger traffic would be more than compensated by the postal security thus attained.

I recognise no clashing between the great interests of the colony-the commercial, the pastoral, the apricultural, and the gold interest, which hast interest is now, and for years has been, one of the great settled industries of the colony. I regard these great interests—not as rivals, is alous and antagenistic, but—as members of one united family, with one common good to be attained, one common interest to serve. To that good and to that interest Is pledge myself it returned, to labour earnestly and homestly in my capacity, a capacity at once humble and proud,—humble, in regard to my per-coal finadequery—proud, as the regression to my per-coal finadequery—proud, as the regression to the order of the common flowers to the common flowers.

I have the honour to be, Gentlissen,

Your faithful servant,

J. GEO. LONG INWES.

ANDS' SYDNRY and SUBURBAN DIRRCTORY for 1865.—The publisher, having reselved on again issuing this werk, which will be presented to the public early in January next, respectfully requests that heads of Government departments, public companies, and mercantille establishments will render all accessary information to the compiler in order to insure accuracy inmake it a reliable source of information.

As a publication of this kind requires the experience of years to bring it to eximparative perfection, the public may be assured that the fortheoming work will peases many advantages over its predecessors, and will constain fuller inforwation than that of last year, together with an almanac—in fact, all that will tend to make it a uneful work of general reference.

A limited number of advertisements will be received, and as the "Sydney and Saburban Directory for 1856" will, like its predecessors, be found in the commercial institutions and yubile libraries of Great Britain, America, and coloniace, der, as well as on board the steamboats, at the hotels, along the overland reuts—to all of which places copies are presented—the publisher acan recommend its a one of the best mediums for advantaing.

FOR THE YEAR 1863.

Agent for Immigration to Under-Secretary for Lands, submitting Report on Immigration for the Year 1863.

Government Immigration Office.

Sydney, 30 A September, 1864.

In 1 have the honour to submit, for the information of the Honorable the Minister for Lands, my annual report on in migra ion to this colony during the year 1863.

In the appendices which accompany this report, are returns abowing the result of the immigration during the year year, similar to the returns attached to the reports of preceding years.

returns showing the result of the immigration during the part year, similar to the returns attached to the reports of preceding years.

3. The regulations for assisted immigration, promulgated on the 21st June, 1831, having been withdrawn, other regulations in lieu thereof were established by his Excellency the Governor in Cruncil, to take effect on and after June 1st, 1863, under which regulations the present immigration is now carried on.

The chief and very important differences between the regulations of June 21st, 1861, and of June 1st, 1893 is the actitional clause that, by the latter—"Any person may introduce, from the United Kingdom, immigrants of the abouting classe, wi hout naming them in the colony," on payment of the deposit for passage money in Sydney, according to a fixed table of rates, dependent upon the age and sax of the intending emigrants.

Little advantage has as yet been taken of this clause, although it was anticipated that it would be to a great trient made use of by employers of labour, who might wish to import any particular class of persons to be named by their agents in the United Kingdom, at any time during the period of twelve months allowed for the currency of the passage certificate. Only nine individuals have been sent for from the colony under this classe; and thirty-nine passage certificate. Only nine individuals have been sent for from the colony under this classe; and thirty-nine passage certificates. have been invanded for the nomination of individuals in the United Kingdom, by the National Colonial Emigration Society of Londer, to which certificate that society had previously runtine a deposit of £202

The immigrants have always the opportunity afforded them of either commencing or continuing their elucation during the voyage.

A schoolmaster, who receives a gratuity of from £5 to £10, of pendent upon the faithful discharge of his duties, is nominated from amongst the passengers, by the Emigration Commissioners, previous to departure.

He gives instruction to all who may be willing to attend during the school hours of each day. It is satisfactory to note that the total number of such schoolars, on board the emigrant ships for this year, are reported to have been 257 adults and 472 children.

Books, of the value of £12 to £16, are supplied to each ship, for the brucht of the emigrants, and are lent out for perusal; and, at the end of the voyage, they are disposed of by the surgeon-superintendent, in gifts, to such of the enligrants as are most deserving of the indispense.

General Beharis

The immigrants introduced into the colony, during the year new reported on, were generally of a very useful description.

The surgeons-superintendent fully maintained their character for general indicatory.

In accordance with the rules of the service, the increase in the amount of gratuity peld to surgeons-superintendent, of from 10s. per head to a maximum of 20s, per head, according to the number of voyages made by them in charge of emigrants—in addition to allowance of £60 for a return passegs to England—has been found most successful in its results, by having induced gentlemen of the medical profession to continue for several years in the service.

The surgeons superintendent are subject to the infliction of pecuniary persaltice, if found to have neglected the efficient discharge of the very responsible duties out usted to them.

of promisry prealities, if found to have neglected the efficient discharge of the very responsible duties entimated to them.

The establishment of permanent matrons continues to give much satisfaction. These matrons are placed on a preasent staff receiving a gratuity of from £30 increasing a £30 for each voyage, also an allowance of £30 for a return passage to England.

Their especial duties are the careful supervision during the voyage of the single female emigrants, always, however subject to the control of the surgeon-superintend at.

The single women are provided by the Emigratica Commissioners with materials for work, which are distributed to them by the matron.

The surjects made from these materials are required to be kept by the matron, and delivered to the Immigration Agent on arrival in Sydrey, who again returns them to the single females, provided their conduct has not been reported against, either by the surgeon-superintendent or by the matron.

Foury Minns as Hour at Sha.—The Licerpool Mercury observes that Mr. James Steel, a working joiner of that town, has invented a server propeller, and he states from experiments made on the Prince Park Lake, that with this screw he can get four times the speed of the ordinary screw with the same engine and the pressure of steam. The screw are worked reverse by means of two wheels at the centre boxes of the screws, and can be replaced at sea at any ine, and being only one-third in the water, can be unshipped without any difficulty. There are six blades in one frame, the reversible one catching the back water as the ordinary case, giving thereby five times the velocity, as proved the last three to four years of Prince's Park Lake. The steam on his model is raised by naphtha. DIABY.

WHETHER the Protection cry is to play a con-spicuous part in the ensuing elections or not, there can be no doubt that the minds of the electors will be influenced by their leanings on this subject wherever there are no predominating causes of preference on other grounds. We do not think it is fair to give as their final conclusions the random speeches of our public men made when the subject had been far less discussed, and was not so well understood as at present. Some years ago the question was examined in its world-wide relation to political economy, and the intercourse of nations, and the elector was confused by a multitude of quotations, some of very remote date, or recording the sentiments of statesmen, men who acted under different circumstances and were dealing with the interests of another people. During the last two years, however, we have generally examined the question in its colonial aspects. We have considered it in relation to the particular colony of New South Wales. We have tried it by the interests of this city. We have sought out its relations with our commerce. We have looked into its connection with the connection with the second tried in the second trie into its connection with the present employments, investments, and enterprises of the actual community. Having taken this course, we have cut off a hundred controversies, as to general matters of fact or of history. The subject is brought within that compas an ordinary amount of good sense and intelli-gence may comprehend, and the simple question has been proposed,—Are we, or are we not, a commercial colony, whose peculiar advantages, tastes, and actual pursuits require that we should maintain an absolute and perfect commercial freedom? Those who have maintained, in spite of these aspects of the case, the doctrines of protection, have never attempted to refute the objections to their schemes founded upon the present state of things here. They can-not deny that a very large proportion of the inhabitants are directly engaged in com-merce—that another very considerable section are employed in laborious and mechanical production—in subordination to the direct com-mercial interest. It is equally impossible to deny that thousands derive their subsistence by provising indigenous timber, stone, brick, and time, and by working up these materials into expensive edifices. If we take away the articles supplied by the ironmonger in various forms, the buildings which cost their proprietors what in England would be deemed a what in England would be deemed a fortune, are entirely, first and last, paid for in the shape of wages. When, therefore, the actual occupations of the people are considered—when the ramifications of their employment are pursued—it is seen at once that the great mass of the workers of this city have no interest but in the feeders. city have no interest but in the freedom of trade, and that protection simply means an artificial dearness of the articles they consume for the sole benefit of persons in particular employments, and under the pretence of encouraging native industry. Such being the fact, the subject comes befor an intelligent and upright citizen in a form which will enable him to pronounce without fear of mistake. If he had to meet a convention of socialist philosophers, and establish a community upon a new plan, it would be quite possible that he might listen to a general scheme of protection. He might indeed come to the conclusion adopted by many such speculators that trade and commerce are demoralising, and that the fruitful cause of crime is that luxury which commerce is supposed to create. He might assume that it would be better to draw a cordon around the little State-to preserve strip of desert land between the country of his choice and the outer world. In such a society, providing the harvest never failed, the orchard providing the narvest never latter, we were ever fruitful, and none of those accidents happened which seem to justify forethought and the reservation of the thought and the reservation of the redundancy of one year to meet the wants of the next, provided no accident intervened -then such a community might enjoy grea tranquility. It would be but the multiplication of family life, or rather the absorption of the family into a wider and more perfect brother-hood. But it is impossible for people who have built ships, wharves, warehouses, shops, and stores—who have constructed docks and railroads - who have built hamlets around the city where not a grain of corn could be grown; who, in short, are one-third of the entire population of the colony—it is impossible for them to go into this theory of human felicity. They have their mortgages to dis-—their families to sustain;—they have all this to do at once. They can only do it as they have done before. They have no time for speculations upon human happiness. If they hesitated for a moment in the career which their fathers left them, and upon which they have entered, their children would be crying for bread, and their angry creditors would expel them from their homes. It is not, under these circumstances, that theoretical blessedness can be tested by practice. We are a commercial people. We do get our living by trade. Thousands of persons are employed in banks, in lawyers' offices, in merchants' counting-houses, in stores, and in docks. To attempt a policy which will embarrass their energies is to incur -their families to sustain ;-they have all this which will embarrase their energies is to incu a fearful responsibility. To do so in the spiri

of wantonness and contempt is to commit What we state in reference to Sydney is not confined to this metropolis. All the leading pursuits of the interior are favoured by freedom of commerce, although not so dependent upon it. What can a collier or miner of any class, What can a collier or miner of any class, whether of coal or gold, gain by restrictions on trade? They can only make dearer everything he consumes without adding one farthing to the value of his produce. Even the farmer cannot be benefited, for his wheat is already protected by the sea, and in the far interior he enjoys an exclusive possession of the market. The only parties who can show that they will be gainers belong to the few trades which supply articles that can'be furnished from England, and their only object is to be enabled by law to continue an occupation the natural profits of which are an occupation the natural profits of which are insufficient to support them or to satisfy their ambition.

We hope and believe that these points have taken hold of the popular mind with sufficient strength to obviate interested schemes. Were the desire of the protectionist to be put in simple words, and in a straightforward manner, it would hardly encounter a formal opposition. It would look so queer, so canny, such simple selfishness, so odd a scheme of personal advantage that it would be heard with comical wonder and answered by peals of derisive laughter. Let the protectionist [nothing has occurred to lead to the supposition take up his own interest alone, as an individual, and put his particular wish in plain language; let him say all that is in his heart just as it is there, and his plain exposition will render him for the moment exceedingly amusing and attractive. We do not suppose that the play would be often called for. The public taste would be sated by frequent repetition. But the charm of grotesque truthfulness would certainly carry the piece through several representations. We may suppose, for example, that a tailor, some lineal descendant of the Shaksperian worthies, were to offer himself as the exponent of protection to an audience of painters, carpenters, masons, lime-burners, bricklayers and brickmakers, with all their attendants of quarrymen, hodmen, and so forth. He would say, "Gentlemen, here you have a suit of clothes which cost you £1. They are made by my competitors in London. Listen to me: for twice that sum I will make you garments as good out of precisely the same material, with thread as fine and stitches as short, and you thread as nne and sutches as saort, and you will have this great satisfaction: you will have enhanced my wages—you will have encouraged a fellow citizen—you will have preserved the race of tailors." Would there be found among the audience any who would think the in genious protectionist did not deserve a cheer And yet this is what protection means. It has no philosophy beyond it, and it is with such a tale that the advocates of this system are going o the electors now ! Whoever they are we hope they may be besten. We quarrel with no man for his abstract theory. We do not condemn him because in times past he has blundered in its application, but we have reached the hour now when compromise of this sort would be ruin. Wherever protection is right, it is here un-mistakably wrong. It may be exactly the thing for the manufacturing States of America, but for precisely the same reason it does not answer for the South. It may be of little consequence in the interior of a continent where its effect is to render somewhat dearer that which s already dear: but it will not do for which has to keep abreast of the world, and whose prosperity will depend upon its power to use well those facilities which nature has given us in our harbour and geographical position-our sole, but our noble inheritance.

THE Report of the Immigration Agent, just THE Report of the Immigration Agent, just published, shows that though the immigration vote for last year was cancel'ed, there was enough of it belonging to the previous year left uncancelled to keep up a moderate supply of new comers. Thirteen vessels arrived curing the year 1863 bringing 4633 immigrants, and there are yet nearly three thousand who have been nominated, and who may be avvected to come. who may be expected to come.

If it had not been for these new arrivals more people would have left the colony during the year than came to it, for there was a considerable seaward emigration to the other colonies, especially to New Zealand. Of the old stagers we had fewer by 1570, but the new arrivals gave us a balance in favour of immi-gration of 3063.

We obtained only a very small fraction of the total immigration from Great Britain. Not fewer than 223,758 persons left the shores of the old country for new lands, of whom about 30,000, however, were foreigners or of undis-tinguished nationality.

More than half the whole total of emigrants crossed the Atlantic to the United States, which just now is the land of greatest attraction. No where else is the demand for abour so great, or the rate of wages so high. A ew may go attracted by the bounty with the deliberate intention of entering the the majority are probably allured simply the majority are probably allured simply by the bigh wages. In every department of industry there is a great demand, caused partly by the war demand for produce and manufactured articles, and partly by the absorption of the adult labourers in the army.

Australasia, however, including New Zeaand, drew more immigrants than the British North American colonies British North American colonies did, for, while the latter secured only 18,083, this part of the world drew 53,054. Of these, Victoria claimed more than 20,000, New Zesland nearly 14,000, and Queensland more than 10,000. The attractiveness of our colony, therefore, stands fourth on the list, which is not exactly the position was caused to which is not exactly the position we ought to occupy. Perhaps, under better auspices, when we get out of our present muddle, and have public affairs put on a better basis, we may be able to exhibit as great a proportional prosperity as any of our neighbours, and offer as attractive a prospect to those who are looking out for a

Our protectionist friends will, no doubt, say that our great want is the absence of a stiff tariff; but then, as our neighbours are like us in this respect, that cannot be the cause of the little preference shown to this colony. Nor can it be of a liberal land law, for we have distanced all our neighbours in the lavishness with which land is given away, and yet we do not draw crowds. So we must look elsewhere for

Of the immigrants that came last year, 3275 Of the immigrants that came last year, 3275 were from Ireland, 1028 from England and Wales, and 295 from Scotland. Taking the return of the last ten years, however, there is not the same difference of nationality observable. For the immigrants from England and Wales numbered 29,553, while those from Ireland did not exceed 27,076, Scotland contributing 6371. Up to 1859 the immigrants were selected by the Commissioners in London in proportion to the population of the three divisions of the United Kingdom. Subsequently to that time the remittence regulations have been in operation, by which persons have been been in operation, by which persons have been nominated here.

Last year the plan was restored by which persons might be nominated in London on payment of the deposit here. A violent opposit was raised to this on the ground that employers would make use of it to awamp the local market would make use of it to awamp the local market with labour. The opposition seems to have been singularly disproportioned to the danger, for so little use has been made of the privilege that only nine persons have been sent for from the colony under this regulation, and thirty-nine passage certificates have been forwarded for the nomination of individuals in the United Kingdom by the National Colonial Emigration Society of London, for which certificates that society had prayiously remitted Emigration Society of London, for which certificates that society had previously remitted a deposit of £202. One reason, perhaps, of so little use being made of this regulation is that the deposit is higher than in the case of persons named in the colony. Thus, for a person between 12 and 40 years of age, the deposit is seven pounds if he is named in the colony, but it is eleven pounds if he is named in England. This difference was established by Mr. Robertson for the purpose of neutralising as far as possible the effect of the regulation, which was carried in the Assembly against his wish, and is an illustration of the way in which the Executive can obey the literal injunction of Parliament and disobey it in spirit. But that there would have been any very great use made of this regulation, even if there had been no difference in the amount of the deposit.

The contract price for bringing out an emigrant is £14 0s. 9d. The gratuities bring it up to £15 7s., and the expenses in England add a further average sum of £1 10s. 9d. But then the deposit fee, which comes from private suppose the above of the private suppose suppose the private suppose the private suppose the private sup scurces, lessens the charge on the public funds so that the actual cost to us of each immigrant during the year was £11 7s. 8d., or at the rate of £12 12s. 7d. per statute adult.

The disposal of the immigrants who arrived under the remittance system is very satisfactory. The greater part join their friends, some are the depot. No means exists of exactly tracing where they go, but it is known that by far the larger proportion of those who leave the ship on their own account are immediately distributed throughout the country districts, and it is of very rare occurrence that any of them apply at the depot at any subsequent date seeking for employment.

The sanitary arrangements on board ship are also very satisfactory. The deaths are now reduced to 0.60 per cent. They have been as high as four per cent. This diminished mortality is undoubtedly due to the improved arrangements adopted by the Commissioners.

The Immigration Agent suggests that the Emigration Commissioners in London should have a limited power of nomination. already have this power to a certain extent, it being found desirable to have a certain number of families on board each ship, and the remit-tance system yielding chiefly single persons.

An extended power of nominating might often enable the Commissioners to send out often enable the Commissioners to send out suitable persons. The fear is lest they should send out unsuitable persons. As a check upon this, it might perhaps be sufficient to require that all their selections should be approved by our Colonial Agent in London.

BEDUCTION OF POSTAGE BATES TO ENGLAND .- I REDUCTION OF FOSTAGE BATES TO BNOLAND.—It will be seen, by referring to the Government Gazette Extraordinery, which appears in another column, that the postage rates to England have been reduced to these that were charged previous to the increase made four months since. This step has been atten in consequence of the Bittish Government having intimated their intention to suspend for the present the increase of the postage on lotters from England to the colonies, which they at one time proposed. We learn that the Government of this colony have received a dispatch from the Secretary of State, covering enclosures from the Postmaster-General, containing a proposition made by the P. and O. Company for the establishment of a bi-monthly mail service, but stating that if such a proposition should be entertained, the postage rates would have to be doubled. The enclosure from the P. and O. Company size states that they positively decline to allow their steamers to cell at Kangaroo Island instead of King Gorge's Sound.

I NLARGEMENT OF ST ANDREW'S PARISE CHURCH—to silow their steamers to cell at Kangaroo Island instead of King George's Scund.

I NLAMOEMENT OF ST ANDREW'S PARISH CHURCH—About one hundred persons connected with St. Andrew's Church of England, met last night in the parcolals school-rom, to consult as to the necessity of enlarging the church. The Rev T. O'Reilly presided. From the remarks of the chefrman and others, it appeared that sithough St. Andrew's was the largest perish about Sydney, it yet had the smallest church. The present structure was not large enough to accommodate all who want there to worship, and it was considered needful to increase the size of the church at that 300 persons more might be accommodated. This it was proposed to do by carrying on the roof of the present nave as far as the chancel, thus forming the building had a parallelogram. The relargement would cost about $300. The project properly belonged to the parleh, and would in no way interfere with the completion of the Cathedral. The Cathedral could not be fluished before three years should clapse, and probably not before sta, it being the intention of the Bishop not to open it for worship until completed and onescented. Mr. Richardson moved, and Mr. Watts seconded, the first resolution—"That the meeting feats the necessity and recognises the importance of increased charch accommodation in this purch." Mr. Ediby proposed the second resolution, namely—"That a committee, consisting of str. Allerton, Mr. Seithy, Mr. Relingen, Mr. W. Sentis, Mr. Watts; Mr. Pitt. Mr. Kenyon, Mr. Chadwick (with power to seld to their number), be appointed to collect substriptions; and that the ladies of the parish be semastly requested to render their valuable ambistance." The meeting was unsulincue, and both resolutions were coordially approved. A subscription list was opened before the meeting separated.

Pitt-street Young Men's Mutual Improvement Foundary. Yesterday evening. Dr. Neild delivered a lecture in connection with the Pitt-street Young Men's Mutual Improvement Scotety, in the schoolroom adjulating the Congregational Church, the Rev. J. Graham in the chair. The subject of Dr. Neild's lecture was, "Strews on the stream of events in Maoridon." The Secturer explained that his object was to lay before his hearers several stors in connection with the social and political state of N w Zealand which would serve to throw some light up in the present position of sfisirs is that country. The lecturer then proceeded warmly to vindicate the New Zealand settlers from the misrepresentations and calumniae with which they had been superact in England, and additional a mease of facts which went to show that the impotence of Stritch rule in New Zealand the unwise policy of the Imporial Government (in sacrificing the interests of the settlers to the supposed interests of the rebellion and outrages in the Northern Learnel in which Sir George Grey and the natives had now pretty nearly mastered the extiters. BARAAR AT NEWTOWN.—A barsar for the reduction of the debt on the Newtown Wesleyan Church was opened yesterday, and it is no eraggeration to say that it would do credit to any English provincial town. It is held in the large room of the Newtown School of Arts, which has been decorated for the occasion by the Messre. Henderson of Cannelis Grova, and the articles 'arbitishe bear ample widenes to the itili, tests, and industry of those ladies who for some months past have devoted themselves to this object. The value of the stock cannot be much less than air or seven hundred pounds. One of the most noticeable features of the brazer is the utilizarian character of the great bulk of the brazer is the utilizarian character of the great bulk of the goods enhibited for asis, consisting of children's oldthing, and various other things of every day use. Among those articles which come under the demonination of "fancy work" are beautifully-wrought oftensam, acids pillows, fire screens, brachets, lamp stands, and card business. Then there are picture frames of leether, historical engravings, and photographs of Weeleyan ministers—including one of the Rev. W. Mr. M'Secon moved "That the Hom W. Forsier, Esq., is a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of East Fydney, and that this menting pledges itself to use its utmost endeavours to secure his return."

Mr. FALSER seconded the motion, which was put and carried with continued cheering.

A number of gentlemen on the platform were then called for in succession, and they, as well as some o have for whom no call was made, addressed the meeting. Several of them stated their own political views, and all expressed the plessure they fell at the enthusiastic reception accorded to Mr. Forster.

A vote of thaths was given to the Chairman, who in his turn thanked the meeting for the good order waich hat characterized its proceedings. The meeting than ground for Mr. Parks, cheered for the Martin Ministry, and separated at about a quarter to eleven.

MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATION.

MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATION.

Mr. PRITCHARD FOR BRISHANE WARD.

A NUMEROVA meeting of the electors of Brisbone Ward was convened last evening at Longford's Bine Bell Hotel, Bribine-street, to heardir. W. Pritchard, a candidate for the representation of the ward, explain his views. Mr. D. Scott was in the chair. After some general remarks upon the constitution and duties of municipal corporations, Mr. Pritchard proceeded to treat of the difficulties the rate-payers now isboured under, and first of all he referred to that unjust burden cast upon their shoulders—the sewerage debt, which was contracted by commissionors appointed to their unjust burden cast upon their shoulders—the sewerage debt, which was contracted by commissionors appointed to military their shoulders—the sewerage of the small endowment of £10,000 a year, which was kept by the Government to pay interest upon the debt. If we had an endowment proportionate to the endowments to country municipalities we should have £20,000 or £24,000 city improvements. Another matter he alladed to as a giventee was the delay of the Government in haading over some compensation for the Sydney Common. He advocated the establishment of public baths and weakhouses, staring that we were far behind the sage in sanitary matters—incleed, almost in a state of semi-barbariam in this respect. This word, he believed, contributed more than any ward towards the funds over which the Municipal Council had control; and yet, according to accounts, less money was spent for improvements in it. In referring to the restring siderman and the other candidate, he stated that Mr. Hurley had been too anxious to please his constituents; for, when in the Council, he look a course—opposed the resolution—which would have cost the city 25 per cent.

Incre than ought to have been given for supplying earthenware pipes. There were two tenders for the courte—one by a merchant, the work of the latter being 1/2 per cent. less than that of the merchant. The meschant, however, was an elector of Brisbane Ward,

RIFLE MATCHES —A match between No. 2 company of the Sydney Battallon, and the Milang company, of Adelaide, who shot against the Robin Hood Company, of England, has been lately shot on the respective ranges of each Company. Rither side were allowed to choose a day during the first twenty days of last month. The Adelaide men were allowed the advantage of shooting with Improved a ghts and a light pull of trigger, whereas the Sydney Company abot with the Buffald Riffa, as based by the Government. By some misunderstanding arising out of the correspondence, the two companies did not shoot with the same number of nen; the Milang Company shooting with twelve, and No. 2 with ten men. Deducting, however, the two lowest accres on the side of the Milangs, No. 2 would be victorious by thirty marks. No. 2 made the fine average of 47. Mr. Douglas of No. 2 being top score of both sides with 56, and Mr. Sharp second, with 53. The lighest score on the side of the Milangs was that of Captain Rankins, 52 We give the scores on each side. We have tobacco circulars to hand per Northam. Davis and Sons statement of September 1st says:—"Though the value of gold had declined in New Yark towards the close of July wet the tobacco market was not very July, yet the tobacco market was not very materially affected by the fall, as other causes to which we have before alluded as enhancing the price of tobacco are still as vigorously in operation as ever. The absorption of able-bodied eperation as ever. The absorption of able-bodied labourers, whether white or coloured, into the Federal army either by voluntary enlistment or conscription, had deprived growers of the means of planting a full crop in due course, and the produce of the very diminished breadth of land under cultivation will be very scanty beyond doubt, on account of the long drought, and from which all accounts concur in describing the growing crops as in a very unsatisfactory condition. The rain also came too late to prevent injury, and short stocks, with the certainty of this year's crop will not be an abuntainty of this year's crop will not be an abundant one, have had the effect of largely curtailing business. LOP CLOTHING, PALSE BOONOMY.—
WILLIAM HOWES, Fashionable Tailor, of Pitterer, has (in order to meet the awful depression of the tree) made such considerable reductions in his charges as all enable even the most conomically prudent to enjoy the best dits of good materials, well made, and elegantly fitting clothing as prices a mere triffs over charges now made for slep and machine-made articles of much inferior materials. W. H. requires but a trial of his clothing (made to order), when he feels consident that the most fastidions will admit that for dutability, comfort, and elegance of fit, no comparison can be made between the goods supplied by his establishment and the "hand-une-down" trush palmod upon the public by slop-selling "emportume."

CONSTANTINOPLE has again been visited by a great fire. The flames originated in a shop near some timber-yards on the Stamboul side of the Golden Horn, and spread to a store kept by a Greek dealer, who had illegally on the premises a large stock of gunpowder. A fearful explosion was the result: two persons passing by at the time were killed, and thirteen others were more or less seriously injured; and by the time the fire was artimuished six house and

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SYDNEY MORN-ING HERALD.—Sir.—In the report of the evi-dence, in your lesse of this day, given at the inquest on the death of John Holland, there are two errors, which make Mr. Houston and me say what we did not, and could not, say.

Mr. Houston and me my wants we use many say.

In Mr. Houston's evidence the nort should be omitted before broken, and the correct reading will them be—" that the doctor thought his arm was broken."

In the second paragraph of my evidence the word reaction should be reduction; and in the last line but one of the same paragraph the no should be omitted before difficulty. The proper reading will them b:—" There is deficulty in discovering free use after some weeks' standing."

Hoping you will give insertion to this letter in your issue of to-morrow,

"Why yes, at Phill WCarroll's, there I bought it."
Foliceman Six then looking at the beef
At once concluded he had caught a thief.
"Bow dare you say M Carroll sold you that,
A piece of stuff devoid of growth or fat.
Of him who rules the town in trade
Fill not hear such assertion made
Five shope he has now in the town.
For what you're said, you'll safely sup!
Come on with ma, I'll 'look you up."
Then on they went, the fellow in this fix
Cailed out "I'll tell the truth policeman six,
M'Carroll never sold the beef,
I own your right I am a thief
For late to Light, while on my rambles
